

Poetic Moments of the past

Thoughts

I entered your life
violently.....
and thus...
I must let go!!!

I entered your thoughts
and kept you company
knowing
that you knew
all these years long,

about my deepest feelings,
about my care,
about my love.

Reasons,
beyond my power
forbid my entrance
to your well guarded
fortress...
Your soul.

You always knew....
I admired you
and strongly felt about you.

As if
an "icy" wall
hovers above me
sideways
and forbids my entrance

Scruples- hunt me.
Conscience –as well..

As if
scandal and disgrace
are anxiously waiting
for a mistake.

I wish I knew...
How you felt

I wish you knew ...
How I feel

I wish you knew ...
how many times I cried..
how many times
I uttered your name
and
you couldn't hear..

How many times of agony
Are you well?
Have you reached your destination?
safe and sound?

Are you happy with your life?
Do you have anyone to talk to
and trust?

Is your laughter genuine?
Or
Does it hide problems?
beneath it?

I wish I knew
I wish –I were there
In every moment of
Stress or happiness

I wish I were able
to cry with you while in sorrow,
to laugh with you while in happiness.

I wish
You had stopped me
And not let me
on my own-to suffer
slowly -slowly
until
oblivion comes.

Written by Sissy Karamerou
March 22nd , 1999

ORIGINAL